Type of Licensure/Registration	The Saskatchewan Dietitians Association (SDA) establishes the education and training requirements that are required for entry into the profession of dietetics in Saskatchewan. Registration with the SDA assures the public and employers that an individual has met the academic and practical training standards. All applicants to SDA must pay the $105 application fee and the appropriate licensing fee. Annual licensing fees (April 1-March 31) are $330. If you register after October 1, the licensing fee is $165. If you resign from SDA prior to October 1st, you are eligible for a $165 refund of your licensing fee. SDA has three categories of licensure which are described in detail under Registration FAQ: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Full Practicing</li> <li>2. Restricted</li> <li>3. Temporary</li> </ol> SDA also has an Honorary Lifetime Membership classification for dietitians who have retired. It is not a licence to practice, but a way of staying connected to the dietetics profession in Saskatchewan. The information requested on this form will be used for the purposes of determining eligibility to be registered and licensed with SDA, administration of the Canadian Dietetic Registration Exam and generally for carrying out SDA's regulatory mandate under the Dietitians Act.

	This information will be maintained in a database and the names of actively licensed members will appear in a register available publicly on the SDA website. SDA will provide information to eHealth Saskatchewan for their provider registry system to enable Dietitians to be authorized for access to the electronic health record viewer. Data will be provided in aggregate form only to outside agencies (e.g. Canadian Institute for Health Information, Saskatchewan Health) for the purposes of workforce planning. If you have questions about the information being requested or how it will be used, please contact the Registrar at (306) 359-3040 or via email at registrar@saskdietitians.org. Internationally Trained Applicant: All applicants to SDA must meet the same registration requirements to be issued a licence to practice as a Dietitian in Saskatchewan. If your academic and practical training were not done through an approved program, you can have an assessment to evaluate the substantial equivalency of your dietetic education. Read more about the process in the Substantial Equivalence Assessment Guide. Before you proceed with submitting an application for assessment, be advised that at the current time there are no opportunities for practicum upgrading in the province. If your assessment determines that you need practicum upgrading, you would not be able to complete this in Saskatchewan at this time. Although we are working on developing a process for this to occur, we have no time frame on when this will be ready and available. You would be required to apply/attend a practicum program out of province or potentially wait several years before a practicum upgrading would be available in the province. If you are an internationally educated applicant, review the Canadian Dietetic Practice Orientation and Self-Assessment Tool website. It will give you a general overview of dietetic practice in Canada and help you assess your knowledge and skills against the standards required to practice dietetics in Canada. You will be provided with a written copy of your assessment that will include individualized recommendations specific to you. As noted above, at this point in time there are NO opportunities for practicum upgrading in the province. There are several steps in the process for registering with SDA if you are from another country. Please contact the Registrar before beginning the process of applying to SDA and/or obtaining key documents required for your application.
Education Credentials	The academic and practical training programs that are currently approved by the SDA board are those which are accredited by the Partnership for Dietetic Education and Practice (accessed here). English language proficiency, good character and currency requirements are set out in SDA's Registration Policies.

	This document was prepared to provide guidance to applicants who intend to achieve licensure by demonstration of substantial equivalence to programs approved by the SDA board. Substantial equivalence is determined by SDA based on results of two assessments.
Application/Registration Process	PART 1- DOCUMENT REVIEW: Documents are to be submitted to SDA through the documentation portal on the SDA website, unless it is coming directly to SDA from the source. Documents must be original and/or notarized translated copies. All original documentation will be returned to the applicant at the conclusion of the assessment process. Please note that missing documents will delay the assessment process. If any documentation was issued under a different name, you will be required to provide official documentation of a name change such as a marriage certificate/divorce decree. PART 2- COMPETENCE ASSESSMENT: The competence assessment is a “live/interactive” assessment delivered remotely in partnership with the University of Alberta. The cost is $600 and it is completed over the course of one day. It is offered twice a year (March and August) and once an applicant has been registered for the assessment, they will receive a study guide which will provide information on what they can expect from the assessment and to assist with preparation. The assessment will consist of three parts: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Foundational Knowledge Exam- Candidates have 1.5 hours to complete a 100-question multiple choice exam that tests their understanding and application of foundational dietetic knowledge. The exam blueprint is based on the ICDEP entry to practice competencies and includes questions related to biochemistry, food service/management, population health promotion and clinical nutrition.</li> <li>• Multiple Mini Interviews- Candidates participate in a series of short interviews. For each interview candidates will have 2 minutes to read the question and 8 minutes to respond. Some responses will be given orally and some in writing. The purpose of the interviews is not to test your nutrition knowledge, but to evaluate some of the other attributes that are important for health care professionals: oral communication skills, critical thinking, ethics, empathy and cultural competence.</li> <li>• Practice Competence Evaluation- Candidates have 1 hour to prepare (15 min), conduct (30 min) and document (15 min) their interaction with a simulated patient with a chronic condition (e.g., type 2 diabetes, heart disease) while being observed. The evaluation is intended to test core skills like history taking, data interpretation, clinical reasoning, problem solving, interviewing, communication, and clinical documentation. Candidates are expected to be</li> </ul>

	familiar with commonly used Canadian nutrition resources (i.e., Canada’s Food Guide, Diabetes Canada).
Required Exams	Canadian Dietetic Registration Exam (CDRE): The CDRE is a four-hour, computerized, multiple-choice examination designed to test practice-based knowledge, application, and critical thinking skills required to competently and safely practice dietetics. Only applicants who have met the requirements for registration and have been approved as members of SDA with restricted licenses are eligible to schedule for the next sitting of the CDRE. English Language: Fluency in English at the professional level is required to ensure language is not a barrier for the applicant to practice dietetics in Saskatchewan. When the language of instruction for dietetic education is not English, the applicant must be able to demonstrate proficiency in English at a professional level.

Life Member</li> </ol> For the eligibility requirements of each of these nine categories, please see Section 7 (Eligibility) of the ASFP Bylaws.
Education Credentials
Application/Registration Process	A separate procedure exists for assessing the credentials of people applying to be registered as a Professional Forester who have graduated from a non-accredited forestry program. These applicants may be foreign-trained, or they may have graduated from a university program in Canada that is not accredited by the Canadian Forestry Accreditation Board (CFAB). The procedure is applied consistently across Canada by each provincial association that belongs to The Forest Professional Regulators of Canada

	(FPRC). It involves the assessment of an applicant's current education, training, and experience to determine the extent to which the competencies of the Certification Standards have been met. Please review the detailed credential assessment process handbook that outlines the requirements and the application procedure to follow. Under this application process, the applicant first contacts the professional association in the province where he or she wishes to practice professional forestry. Once admitted into the process, assessment of a candidate's credentials is undertaken by an independent panel of assessors in accordance with a national credential assessment process (described in the applicant handbook). The panel provides an assessment report to the provincial association, which then makes a decision about the membership application. Professional Foresters and Professional Forest Engineers (from Quebec) may transfer to another province with relative ease because of common interprovincial standards for education and competencies. This is in line with a Mutual Recognition Agreement signed by the Provincial Professional Foresters' Associations that belong to the Forest Professional Regulators of Canada (FPRC) and Canada's Agreement on Internal Trade.
Required Exams	All candidates seeking to join the Association of Saskatchewan Forestry Professionals (ASFP) must successfully complete a registration exam on forest policy and ASFP governance. The policy below provides information about the process for writing the registration exam. Members-in-training write the registration exam once their two year in-training period has been completed. Transferring professionals (and Restricted members, where applicable) must complete the exam within 6 months of registering with the ASFP.

Application/ Registration Process	The Operator Certification Board (OCB) issues certificates within the four areas of treatment (water and wastewater), distribution and collection. Each area consists of four levels of certification. These areas are: Water Treatment Level 1 to Level 4  Water Distribution Level 1 to Level 4  Wastewater Treatment Level 1 to Level 4  Wastewater Collection Level 1 to Level 4 Small Water System and Small Wastewater System The requirements for certification consist of a combination of education and experience based upon the type and class of certification desired. All operators are required to pass a standardized exam prior to being eligible for certification. The certification program is a stepped program starting with Class 1 and moving upward. All Operators must start by writing the Class 1 exam and moving toward their desired certification level; as the exams are progressive from one level to the next. On the other hand, for example, you do not need to apply and be certified as a Class 1 Operator before you can apply for Class 2, however you must write both Class one (1) and two (2) exams. As the criteria for certification changes through the different levels, you may apply for a Class 2 certificate and be approved because approval for the Class 2 would require you to meet the requirements for a Class 1 certificate as well. This rule applies for all areas and levels. The certification program for Small Water and Small Wastewater System must start by writing the SWS and/or SWWS exam. Basic requirements for applicants applying for certification are listed below. There are allowable substitutions for education and experience not listed here. If you would like to view this information, it can be found in the Water and Wastewater Works Operator Certification Standards, 2016.

	Class 1 Operator Grade 12 education One year of operating experience Class 2 Operator Grade 12 education Three years of operating experience Class 3 Operator Grade 12 education plus two years post-secondary education For Water Treatment and Wastewater Treatment – Four years of operating experience with two of the four years in a Direct Responsible Charge (DRC) position, or four years of experience in a Class 4 facility. No DRC required. Class 4 Operator Grade 12 education plus four years of post-secondary education For Water Treatment and Wastewater Treatment – Four years of operating experience with two of the four years being DRC experience. For Water Distribution and Wastewater Collection – four years of experience. Even though DRC is not a necessary requirement for some Level 3 and 4 applicants, it can be used to substitute for a shortage in post-secondary education. Therefore, you may be asked to provide authorization on your DRC even if you do not need it to meet the experience criteria. Small Water System and Small Wastewater System Grade 10 education Six months of operating experience 0.6 CEUs of credit For complete details on certification requirements refer to the Water and Wastewater Works Operator Certification Standards, 2016.
